JUNE 2026

BRAINLYHQ

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

June 2026 was another historic month for BrainlyHQ, with community activity reaching an extraordinary peak and smashing the all-time record for total messages sent. This explosive growth highlighted the remarkable engagement of our members, which was further driven by highly anticipated activations, including the dynamic Pre-Summer event and the thrilling Fruit Fever initiative.

The defining highlight of the month was the official launch of the Partner Program, which has already secured nearly 9 official partners to strengthen the project's ecosystem. Alongside this major milestone, the traditional monthly Piggy Bank event returned to great acclaim, continuing its role as a cornerstone of community engagement and rewarding active participation.

The server also underwent a massive structural and aesthetic transformation to enrich the overall user experience. A brand-new design was rolled out alongside fresh roles, new emojis, optimized channels with a "new chances" system, and custom pins that allow members to distinguish themselves.

Finally, the economy and gameplay loops were heavily expanded to deliver deeper engagement. The introduction of 1 new case, 2 new scratch cards, 3 new slot machines, and an exclusive Luxury Items category drastically increased interactive options, while a unique Mage feature allowed players to smelt items into gold (Brainly Coins).

SCIENCE SCAVENGERS

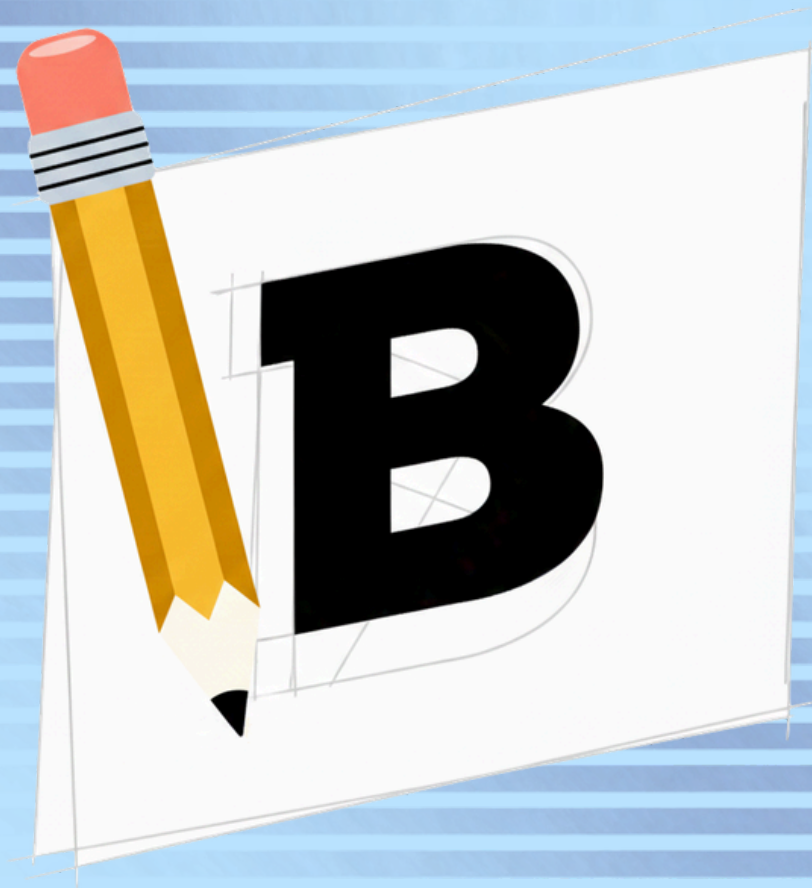

One of the most extensive and ambitious projects to appear on the server. Currently, over 150 unique science-related items are already available - from biology and chemistry to technology, astronomy, and more advanced technical objects. Each item has its own description and graphic, making the entire system not just about economy or collecting, but also a form of discovering knowledge! This allows players to seamlessly blend daily gameplay with an immersive, educational adventure.

PARTNER PROGRAMME

Partnership HQ is the official hub for the BrainlyHQ Partner Program, designed to foster community growth and strategic collaboration. It offers three tailored partnership tracks: Individual, Organization, and Creator - each with specific eligibility criteria and dedicated benefits. By cross-promoting the ecosystem, partners unlock premium rewards such as custom Discord roles, official directory placement, and monthly BrainlyCoins payouts.

CHANGES IN SERVER

The past weeks brought a massive wave of technical, structural, and economy updates across the entire BrainlyHQ ecosystem. A primary focus was placed on the official launch of the long-awaited Partner Program. This milestone involved pushing 10 development commits to GitHub, launching the dedicated Partnership Program website with a Furious Studios promo pop-up, creating bespoke lookup codes, and setting up dedicated partner channels, roles, and verification commands. In tandem with these networking efforts, the core community framework saw the creation of new server logos and seasonal variants, a complete review of moderation and server rules (including the addition of Point 22), an updated welcome message graphic, and the addition of vibrant new emojis and stickers. Structural navigation was heavily optimized by adding an official changelog channel, reopening the recruitment section, and updating numerous channel descriptions - including the server-map layout - while successfully fixing a bug related to invisible channels. Entertainment and social engagement also received a major boost with the launch of a new Truth & Dare section, the restoration of the "Last Letter" channel, and the scheduling of upcoming technical breaks accompanied by finalized outstanding notes.

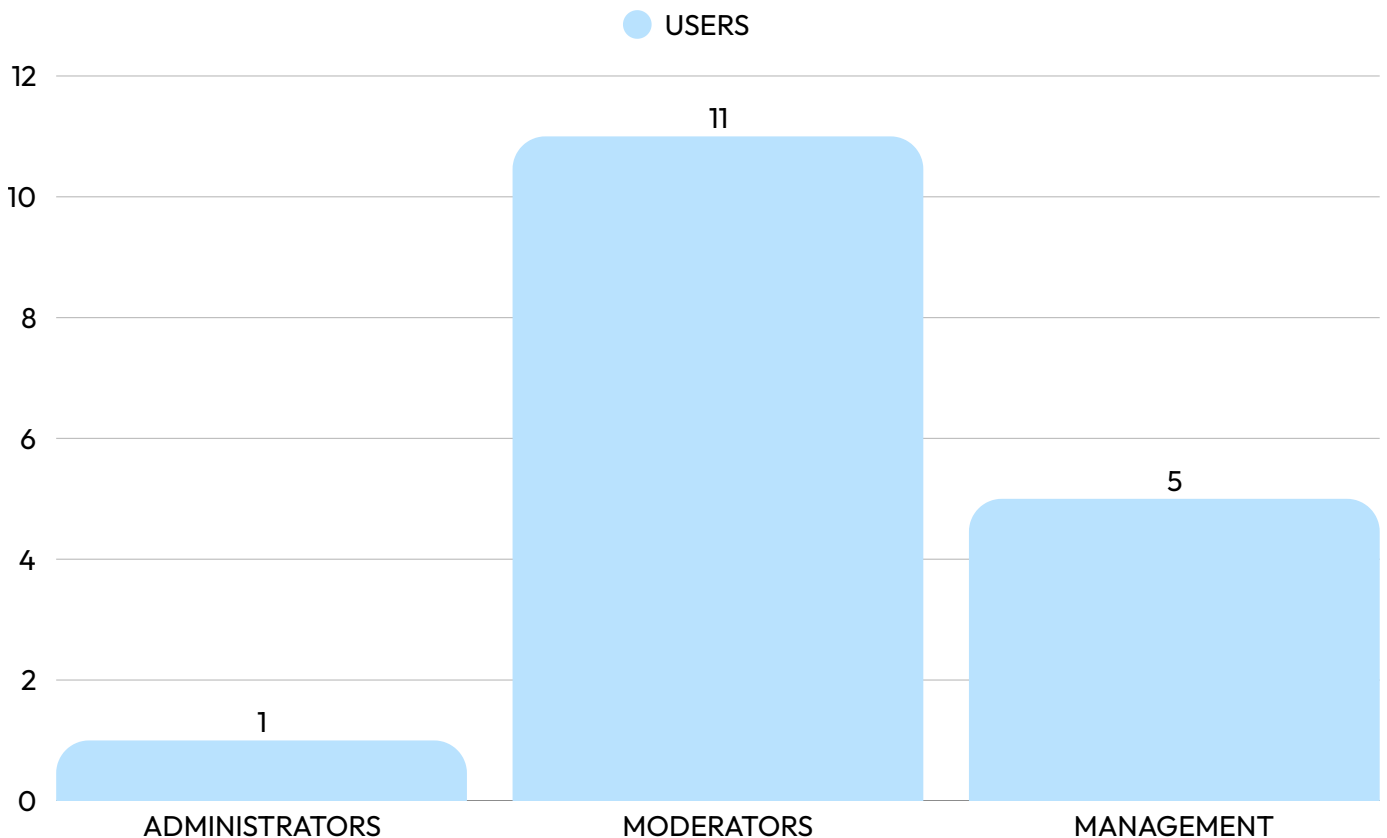

On the technical and backend front, security was significantly tightened through the implementation of REGEX-based expression fixes. The development team successfully resolved several critical bugs, including slash command display errors, backpack display glitches, pet system errors, and a bug that caused Fruit Chests to respawn prematurely. Automation on the server saw major adjustments; while the restrictive Caps Lock penalty and the automated tips system were entirely removed, new daily automated messages and smart reminders for the !work, !crime, and !hustle commands were introduced. Additionally, language errors across the Shop and Crafting interfaces were fully corrected, the performance of the Mi Fuego system was enhanced, and an essential time converter tool was integrated into the BrainlyHQ Data spreadsheet.

The economic and gamification loops experienced a complete overhaul to deliver a deeper user experience. A brand-new "Luxury Goods" category was introduced to the shop alongside adjusted prices, distinct separation for the American BrainlyPlus subscription, increased high-level rewards, and a new daily free reward system. Progression and gameplay mechanics were further enriched by modifying the XP system, deploying a sound panel, introducing two new slot machines, and rolling out a Piggy Bank prototype. Additionally, custom pins were introduced alongside visual updates to the users' backpack displays. To support these updates, the process of implementing comprehensive changes to the official drop rates and economy documentation was also initiated. Furthermore, the Science Scavengers drop rates and box configurations were fine-tuned with three new chests, adjusted prices, and randomized odds. Finally, the server embraced a wave of summer features, debuting the Fruit Fever initiative with a 15-exotic-fruit box, "Juicer" workshop mechanics, and powerful economic modifiers such as Coin Rain 4X, Fast Boost 9XP, and two brand-new scratch cards.

MODERATORS & ADMINS

BRAINLYHQ TEAM - JUNE

In June, our team underwent significant organizational updates to adapt to our current community needs. While the moderation department was downsized by one member, we focused on establishing a new tier of directors and implementing strategic promotions. Due to this new structure and emphasis on leadership expansion, recruitment was successfully reopened with updated parameters at the end of the month. This restructuring allows us to better support our growing community and streamline internal operations for the upcoming months.

OVERALL REPORT

This report summarizes an exceptionally vibrant month of community engagement and technical development within Brainly HQ, driven by massive activity and record-breaking engagement. During this period, the server recorded an unprecedented total of 148,199 messages, showcasing the incredible vitality of our community. This total includes 58,417 user messages and 84,636 bot messages, alongside 5,146 webhook messages, which are often automated actions directly triggered by user commands. In terms of content, 9,312 messages contained attachments, while the remaining majority consisted of standard text-based discussions.

The month was defined by a wave of seasonal successes, including the Pre-Summer event, and launch of the Partnership Program, which opened up new avenues for user interaction. The continuous refinement of automatem services, mini-games, and core infrastructure successfully streamlined workflows.

Ultimately, this massive influx of data and activity highlights the effectiveness of our expanded management framework. With a new leadership structure and numerous highly anticipated premieres planned for the near future, the team remains fully capable of maintaining stability, ensuring that the community is ready to sustain this incredible energy!
